

Volunteering to Learn:

Enhancing the learning in university student volunteering

Website Launch

14th August 2015

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF COUNTRY

I would like to acknowledge that Murdoch University is situated on the lands of the Whadjuk Nyungar people.

I pay respect to their enduring and dynamic culture and the leadership of Nyungar elders both past and present.

The boodjar (country) on which Murdoch University is located has, for thousands of years, been a place of learning. We at Murdoch University are proud to continue this long tradition.

Our project

Specifically, the project is investigating

- the nature and goals of Australian university student volunteering programs,
- the learning outcomes desired and achieved by students who volunteer,
- expectations of both universities and host organisations, and
- available options for locating programs within universities.

Aim: Develop Good Practice Guides

Good Practice Guides

➤ What do we mean by "Good Practice"?

➤ What are the guides intended to achieve?

Concept Guides

- > Terminology
- Learning

Good Practice Guides

- > Students
- Host organisations
- University decision makers
- University program managers
- Employers

Key findings - Terminology

Two main differences of opinion were identified in this study. There is debate around whether students are volunteering if

- 1. they receive credit for a unit of study, or
- 2. the activity is compulsory within a unit or course of study.

Systematic review of the literature found 75 terms in use Desk audit across universities found over 300 entries. 8 models in place

Volunteering Australia new definition in 2015:

Volunteering is time willingly given for the common good and without financial gain.

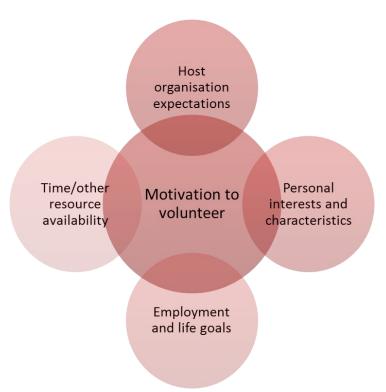

Compulsory educational service learning (where students are required to volunteer as part of a course) is not considered to be volunteering

Key findings - Students

3 types of student volunteers:

Academic Facilitated Independent

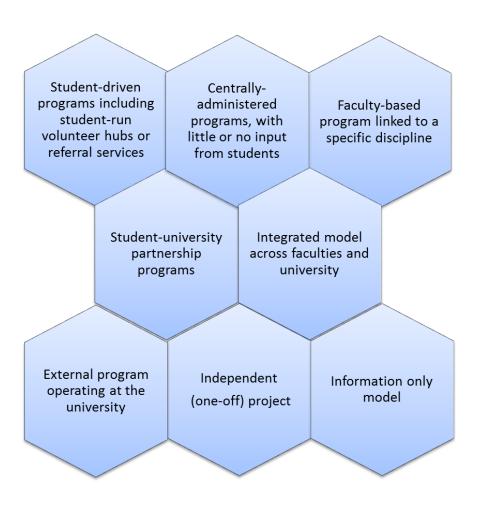

Motivation to volunteer
Social	Values	Employability
To be active	To act upon values	For credit
For fun	To help others	To gain experience
To make friends	To support a cause	To add to their CV
Because their friends do	"It's expected "	To increase employability
	"It's what you do"	To develop skills
		To learn/practice English
		Because it's required

Good communication at the start of the volunteering relationship will lead to better outcomes.

Attention needs to be paid to:

Strategy and policy
Funding and support
Partnerships and relationships
Staff, students and hosts
Managing expectations

at the strategic level

Importance of employing graduates with volunteering experience

- Engaged workforce
- Value congruence
- CSR involvement
- Attracting people with skills, values and experience

What to look for in potential employees' CV

- What did they do?
- Type of volunteering
- Leadership roles
- Skills developed
- Experiences
- Grants

Questions which look into the volunteering experience

- 1. Tell us about your volunteering experience in the university. Where did you volunteer? For how long? How often?
- 2. What kind of roles did you undertake in your volunteering? What tasks and responsibilities did they include?

What do universities expect students to learn?

What do hosts expect students to learn?

Challenges

Documenting learning Staff involvement

How to encourage learning from volunteering

Organised volunteering activities
Student choice
Clarifying expectations
Self reflection

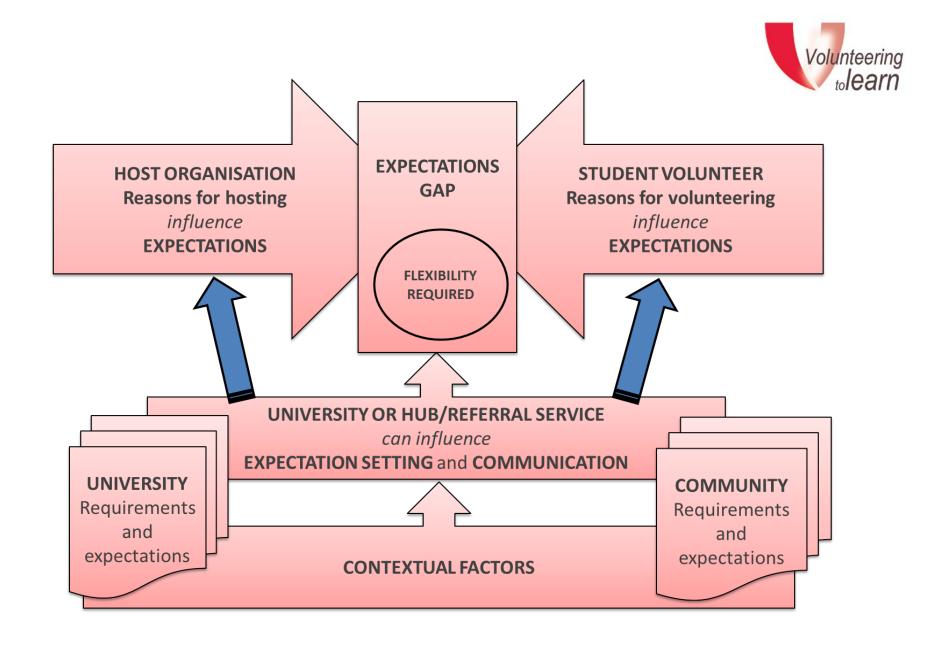

What do students expect to learn?

Students say that they learn

Good feeling, satisfaction 'Soft' skills Communication skills New networks and friends Self-awareness Professional skills Career opportunities

Leadership skills, experience Inform life perspectives

Community involvement

Controversies & contradictions

- "Voluntary"
- > Who benefits?
- > At what point is it exploitation?
- ➤ Who "owns" the program?
- Where do activism and politics fit in?
- Myths and Mysteries
  - Why would employers not value experience gained volunteering?
  - If all students volunteer, will 'different' be sought somewhere else?
